Abstract (Basic):

... An aging complementary product for ordered food product is selected by accessing corresponding database. The POS terminal then outputs an offer for the food product substitution. The response to offer is received from consumer. If response indicates an acceptance, the aging complementary product is offered to consumer at ordered food rate.

... The method further includes if the aging food product is within predetermined aging range. After offering complementary food product to consumer, the ordered food product name is replaced with complementary food product in the bill. The complementary food product is further registered as sold. An INDEPENDENT CLAIM is also included for aging food selling apparatus...
